COVERAGE FOR FOREIGN TRAVEL RISKS

Many schools and towns offer foreign exchange programs, educational overseas trips for students, and faculty sabbaticals abroad. While offering tremendous educational value, foreign travel exposes the sponsoring institution to many risks that you may not be aware of.

SUPERIOR COVERAGE AROUND THE WORLD

CIRMA is pleased to offer its Liability-Auto-Property members an outstanding program provided by AIG. This free program (no direct cost to members) offers broad international coverage, and provides the convenience of limits, premiums, and coverage payments in U.S. currency.

The AIG package provides protection for school and town groups that are traveling abroad. Coverage has been tailored to suit the needs of public entities and their foreign travel programs. Please Note: There are some excluded areas and activities; please consult your CIRMA team for a list of excluded areas before you plan a trip.

International Travel Insurance

DON'T ASSUME

Many institutions think their U.S. policy covers them overseas. But most U.S. policies have limited coverage or no coverage outside the United States, Canada, or U.S. territories. Even foreign coverage endorsements added to U.S. policies can be inadequate—general liability policies don't always cover lawsuits filed in foreign courts. AIG coverage provides superior coverage for schools traveling abroad.

UNEXPECTED RISKS

The legal consequences of an accident are not the same the world over. Local laws and practices follow their own unique traditions and values—which, to a visitor's eyes, can result in unexpected or harsh penalties. There are documented accounts of U.S. nationals being arrested, serving prison time, and paying huge fines for seemingly minor infractions. In such circumstances, you need a local service network to resolve claims. AIG provides the claims capabilities and expertise you'll need, with access to a local service network.

“Don't assume that your group will be covered abroad.”
